

Dear Friends:

It has been my honor to serve you as Gallatin County Attorney for 26 years. I'm seeking one more term, and I ask for your support.

The remarkable growth we've seen in our County presents us with great opportunities and great challenges. Those of us who serve as elected officials must demonstrate leadership to meet the challenges in a way that preserves all that we cherish about our community. During my six full terms as your County Attorney, I've provided sound legal advice to County officials and helped to protect you, your loved ones, and your property, from crime.

Experience plays a vitally important part in the makeup of all top-notch professionals. Experience creates the means through which lawyers exercise sound judgment on behalf of their clients. My tenure is one of proven success on your behalf. I have successfully represented the County on important land use issues before the Montana Supreme Court. I have successfully prosecuted the most serious crimes committed in our County, including several homicides. I have worked with the community's treatment providers, advocates, and medical specialists to create Gallatin County's Treatment Court and our Child Advocacy Center. My deputy county attorneys and I currently serve on no fewer than four separate teams that specialize in the protection of children and domestic violence victims.

I've served our community not just as an elected official but as a dedicated member of nonprofit and service organizations. I've served as the President of Noon Kiwanis; the President of the Montana Chamber Music Society; and as a Board member of Hearts and Homes, Boys and Girls Club, and Intermountain Opera of Bozeman.

As we survey the challenges ahead we must be mindful of those who would implement undesirable criminal justice reforms. In 2020 far too many politicians got onboard the "defund the police" bandwagon. Serious police reform may be needed in other communities, but we should resist the enactment of misguided policies for our police and our courts. The County Attorney plays a vital role in our criminal justice system. Our County Attorney should work hard to hold offenders accountable and to lead the fight against implementing unwise criminal justice reforms. If re-elected, I promise to continue to do just that.

Please help me continue to serve Gallatin County's citizens by donating to my campaign. Individuals may contribute up to $400.00. Please fill out the attached envelope and return it today with any contribution you can make. I'd greatly appreciate a letter of support, a sign location, or any suggestions you may have for my campaign. With your help I will protect the interests of crime victims, law abiding citizens, and law enforcement.
